WAS THE WOMAN CAMPBELL'S WIFE? She Was with Jennings When Compbell

Joseph Jennings, 23 years old, of 462 Second street, Jersey City, went to a picule Tuesday night in Caledonian Park. He made the acquaintance there of a woman whose name and address have not been ascertained. Jennings knows but won't tell. Jennings and the woman were walking down Newark avenue about 2 o'clock yesterday morning and had reached the Pennsylvania Railroad treatie work near Fifth street when two men jumped out from the shadow of one of the big pillars and attacked Jennings. The struggle was of short duration. One of the men slashed Jennings in the abdomen with a khife, making a fearful

The woman screamed and the two men ran away. Jennings fell down on the sidewalk. The woman's screams attracted the attention of Policeman Bruene. When he learned what had occurred he hurried over to the house of had occurred he nurried over to the house of Fire Engine Company No. 4 for assistance, loaving the woman to take care of Jennings. When the policeman returned Jennings was still lying on the sidewalk, almost exhausted from loss of blood, but the woman had dis-nappeared. The wounded man was removed to the City Hospital. The surgeon on duty said there was very little chance of his re-covery.

to the City Hospital. The surgeon on duty said there was very little chance of his recovery.

Tolice Superintendent Smith had an investigation made yesterday afternoon, with the result that Edward Smith of 407 lindson street. New York, was arrested. He was employed as a waiter at the picnic. He admits that he was with the man who stabled Jennings, but refused to give the man's name, Smith was taken to the hospital and confronted with Jennings, who was still conscious. Jennings looked at him, and then said he did not know and hind never seen him before. It was alterward learned that Jennings was stabled by a man named Campbell, nicknamed "Whitey," who has been employed as a waiter in the nark since Saturday.

Jennings made a statement that he and Edward McCann were on their way to the plenie about midnight, and met two men at the railroad trestic. The men were drunk and jostled against him and his friend. A quarrel ensued, which resulted in the stabbing. No credence is given to his statement. It is believed that the woman with Jennings was Campbell's wife, and that she excited her husband's jealousy by firting with Jennings and leaving the park and that she excited her busband's scalous, and that she excited her busband's scalous by firting with Jennings and leaving the park with him. Campbell and his friend Smith, it is supposed, followe ithem and overtook them at the railroad trestle.

A DWARF ON A RACKET.

Diminutive Mr. Ralph Fined 83 for Making n Disturbance in the Street.

While passing the corner of Eighth avenue and West Thirtieth street on Tuesday night Policeman Wurtzfedder of the West Thirtieth street station observed a crowd of about 200 persons gathered in front of a saloon. Crossing over he saw what looked like a very small boy dancing on top of a packing box in time to a lively tune which he was singing at the top of his voice. The officer concluded that it was a case for the Gerry society, but suddenly changed his mind on perceiving that the dancer's face was adorned with a heavy growth dancer's face was adorned with a heavy growth of whiskers in spite of the fact that he was only a little more than three feet tall.
"Who are you, any way?" demanded the officer of the bewhiskered person, forcing his way through the crowd.
"Goliath of Gath." the dancer responded, briefly, and then went on with his performance.
"I'd never have known you from the descriptions I've read," said Wurtziedder.
"You'll have to go to the station house with me."

"You'll have to go to the station house with me."
At the station house the liftle man told the Sergeant that he had only given his name as Goliath to fool the officer. His seal name, he said, was Robert Raiph, 30 years old and 41 inches high, and he was employed as a show dwarf at a dime museum. He admitted that he had been out on a racket that was somewhat incommensurate with his size, and was feeling father frisky, so he danced. Justice Voorhis opened his eyes wide when the dwarf was arraigned before him at Jefferson Market Court yesterday.

LAKE ASPHALT OR LAND ASPHALT. Mayor Harnes Knows Which is the Better

Beenuse He Has Been in Trinidad. The New Jersey Asphalt Paving Company went into court yesterday with an application for a writ of certiorari, directed against the Board of Works to take into the Suprame Court the resolution of the Board giving three contracts for paving to the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, the highest bidders for the The members of the Board defend their action by saying that they could not do otherwise, because the specifications demand lake asphalt, and it is well known that one company controls that particular kind of pitch in Trini-dad. The Mayor, two of the Commissioners say, said he would not sign the warrants if the contracts were given to the New Jerser Com-contracts were given to the New Jersey Company.

Mayor Havnes knows all about asphalt. He went to the island of Trinidad last year with agents of the Barber Company and examined the lake. He was told how much surerior lake asphalt was to land asphalt, and was fully convinced, as he has frequently expressed himself since.

The New Jersey Asphalt Company is composed of prominent politicians of both parties in Newark, and a stiff fight is in sight.

IT WAS ONLY A PRIVATE GAME,

But Barber Wright was Held for Trial Just the Same for Running a Gambling Room, The "Empire Hairdressing Parlor" for Ladies, Gents, and Children, which was raided on Tuesday night as a gambling joint by Detectives Eullivan and Long of the West Thirtieth street station, was represented in Jeffer. son Market Court yesterday by H. H. Wright, the alleged proprietor, and Richard Thomp-son, colored men, both of whom were in court son, colored men, both of whom were in court as prisoners. Wright protested volubity that the place was not a gambling room. "Might he a little card playin" there now an agin," he added. Detective Lang hers remarked that, in view of the fact that thirty packs of cards, a big pile of poker chips, and $18 in cash were found on the table at the time of the raid, he thought perhaps there might be. "You don't run a public gambling room then?" said the Justice. "No, no, your Honor," was the eager reply. "Jus's few of my it'ens come in to play once in a while."

Just a little private gambling room," suggested the Justice in dulcet tones.

"That's all, your lienor."

"Five hundred dollars hall for trial," said the Justice. Thompson was fined $5.

OLD MRS. ADAIR'S DEATH.

Her Daughter Picks Out an Insane Patient Who, She Says, Thresteard Her.

In her testimony before the Kings County Charities Commissioners about the death of her mother, Mrs. Martha Adair, at the Fiatbush Iusane Asylum, Mrs. Martha Clark said she could identify a patient who had threatened her mother's life. Wah her son, Victor terday afternoon for that purpose. Fortyeight of the patients were drawn up in line for her inspection. Mrs. Clark identified Charlotte Stuttsburg, a tail, stoat woman, at out 40 years old as the patient who made the, threat.
The patient wring her hands and cried out repeatedly. "I did not do it." She had to be calmed and led away, as it was feared her excitement might lead some of the patients to become violent.

Efforts on the parts of Mrs. Clark, she visited the asylum at 4 o'clock yescitement might lead some of the patients to become violent.

Efforts on the part of Mrs. Clark to get some of the patients to talk about the treatment her grandmother received were useless. The patients placed their hands to their mouths, it is said, as though afraid to give any information. Birs. Clark said her mother told her that three ratients had jumped on her, and she was convinced this was the way in which her ribs were broken. The investigation will be continued at the office of the Charities Commissioners this morning.

Tried to Nego ta e His Booty in Wall Street. Sidney Mossly, 20 years old, of 420 East Twelfth street, a clerk in the dry goods store of Truesdale & Co. at Twenty-fourth street and Eighth avenue, was arrested in Wall street vesterday afternoon while trying to pera certified check for 548.01. The check bea certified check for $48.01. The check belonged to James A. Kelly, a boss carpenter of 523 West Forty-seventh street, who was engaged yesterday in making some repairs in Truesdale & to, s store. He hung up his coat in the inside pocket of which were his bank book and two checks, one for $11.06 and the other for $48.01. When Kelly put on his coat at moon time the book and checks were missing. So was young Moesly.

Moesly went to the Mechanics' National Bank in Wall streat and asked to have the larger check cashed. The paying teller refused to cash the check unless Moesly was identified, but certified it. Then Moesly tried to get the cash on the street by offering a discount of $10. MRS. PALMER'S LOVE LETTERS

PRODUCED IN DR. WARREN E. PALMER'S SUIT FOR DIVORCE.

Mrs. Palmer Allowed the Case to Go by Default-Afterward She Tried to Have the Judgment Opened, but Has Failed. A few months ago Dr. Warren E. Palmer of 360 Hancock street brought a suit against Annie E. Palmer in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn for absolute divorce, and named as co-respondents J. Wesley Rosenquest, manager of the Bijon Theatre, Charles Pfizer, and Lewis Rosenfeld. Mrs. Palmer was a widow at the time of her marriage to Dr. Palmer in September, 1883. When the case was called for trial early in December Mrs. Palmer did not appear or make any defence, and a decree was granted to Dr. Palmer by Justice Pratt. and he also got the custody of his five-yearold daughter. Last week Lawyer Wernberg. in behalf of Mrs. Palmer, moved to have the judgment opened so that she could defend the suit. Mrs. Palmer denied that she had been served with the summons and complaint in time to prepare for the trial, and also denied the allegations in the complaint. In her affidavit she says her husband promised to give her $1,000 and the custody of their daughter provided she failed to appear and defend the suit.

Dr. Palmer submitted counter affidavits, in which he admits that he gave his wife $1,100. but he says that this was for the settlement of another matter and not to induce her to let the case go by default. He never, he says, promised to give her the custody of the child. He adds that it was out of deference to his wife's feelings that he introduced the testimony of only one of the co-respondents. Among the papers submitted by Dr. Palmer now are copies of letters his wife is alleged to have written to three men. This was addressed to Robert C. Hilliard, the actor:

Hilliard, the actor:

"360 Hancock Street, Sept. 23, 1802.

"My Darling Bor: I have hardly been able to contain myself the last two or three days, and have played a rather deep game, too, but never mind, will make it up bunday, and it seems such an age since I was with you.

"I don't quite know what to do with Wesley, for I only want you, and you must try and get him over on to Uracie. This old black clam has just bought me but two nieces of jewelry after doing what I told you the other day, so now I will take your offer. "." I can hardly contain myself until to-morrow, and oll, what blies it will be when I feel your arms around me again. I shall dream and think of you all night. Ever yours. ANNIK.

"Repert C. Hilliard, 17 120th street, New York."

The recipient of the following letter, it is said, was J. Wesley Rosenquest, the manager of the Bijou Theatre:

said, was J. Wesley Rosenquest, the manager of the Bijou Theatre:

"Wesley, My Darlino: What has happened to you? I have not slept any all night, worrying about you. I went over to the fourteenth Street Theatre at 2, as I promised you, and waited and waited. Finally I took two seats inside and sat out the performance, then went up to the Bijou, and you were not thera. How could you do such a thing as that? Were you sick, or what was the matter with you? Just think, my darling, making me promise to come over and meet you for a happy time, and never coming near. Now, telephone me, sweetheart, right away, on receipt of this, and tell me when to come to you, or write, or telegraph—anything, only let me hear from you and be with you again. I have so much to tell you about and ask advice. "I did not feel very well, either, and I don't know what is the matter with me. Now, send me word immediately. Yours, ANNE." The following, as alleged, was written by a sister of Mrs. Falmer to H. A. Friese of 117 East Twenty-sixth street:

sister of Mrs. l'almer to H. A. Friese of 117
East Twenty-sixth street:

"My Dean Harry: I write you to tell you to wait and come over Sunday, Sis is going to visit some friends in New York to-day, and wants me to go with her. It would be lovely here if I did not go as every one is away. I expect to have a real good time, so I know you will not mind my going. Am going over to Fourteenth Street Theatre for matinée, and then with Sis. I have seen Wesley Rosenquest, and introduced sister to him, as I wished to take a back seat. You probably know wity.
Everything works like a charm. Be a good boy and trust me, that is all. Mamma has not arrived from Beston yet. Jess will be very much surprised to hear I am not going back.
Well, must dress and get ready to go out. I am having a nice, lazy time of it. Didn't get up until 10 o'clock this morning.
"You will call this a regular scrap' letter.
Good-by until I see you. Lovingly,
GRACE."

Mrs. Palmer pronounced the letters base

Mrs. Palmer pronounced the letters base orgeries, but at the trial the "My Darling forgeries, but at the trial the "My Darling Bob" letter was sworn to as being in her hand writing. Yesterday Justice Pratthanded down a docision denying Mrs. Palmer's application for a reopening of the case.

Mr. Rosenquest said last night that he did not know either offthe women, nor was he acquainted with Dr. Palmer. He denied also that he had received any of the letters which were said to have been addressed to him.

NEAME WITHDRAWS HIS APPEAL. Says the Decree Against Him is Vold-D'. vorces Granted.

Douglas J. Neame, the London broker from whom Leila Olyve Neame, daughter of William H. Henriques of the Stock Exchange, recently obtained an absolute notice of the withdrawal of his appeal from the decision in the Superior Court. Counsel for Neame had objected to the jurisdiction of the court on the ground that Mrs. Neame had become a subject of Queen Victoria in the marriage. In the withdrawal of the appeal, Neame says, the decree against him is null and void, because the court had no jurisdiction, Belleving it to be such, he will take no further steps to set the decision aside.

Medals for Piremen.

At the meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners yesterday it was decided to award the Bennett and Stephenson merit medals for the Bennett and Stephenson merit medias for 1891 and 1892 on June 17 at Riverside Park. The former is in recognition of the most conspicuous act of bravery among members of the uniformed force; the latter for the company commander whose management and discipline is most meritorious. The Commissioners have not announced the names of the fortunate recipients. THE HORSE HE WON WAS A MYTH.

Cabman Stersena Charges ex-Cabman Dabols with Setting Up a Bogus Raffe. Cabman Ormo Siersema of 230 West Fortyseventh street complained in the Yorkville Police Court vesterday that he had been cheated out of $2.50 in a raffle for a horse, and he laid the blame therefor upon Alfred Pacots, a blind man. "I threw forty-nine, your Honor," said Sler sems, "and won the horse, but I've never set eyes on the animal, nor on the $2,50 I spent in tickets, and that after having refused an offer f $25 for my chance of winning,"

Dubois, the prisoner, was himself a cabman up to Jan, 3, when he suddenly became blind while driving a fare up Fifth avenue. Since that time he has made a livelihood by pedding whise brooms and dusters through the streets. Early in the spring a rame for a horse was gotten up in his name, the price of the tickets being 50 cents. Siersema took five of them and paid over his money. The ticket holders threw dice at a saloon to decide who was the winner, and then it was that Siersema made his lucky throw. But as he had never set eyes on the horse, and is out his $2.50, he claims that the raffie was a swindle, and caused the arrest of the blind man in whose name it was conducted.

In defence the pri-oner said that he had been deceived by a supposed friend. He said that Cabman Frederick Jones of 2005. West Twenty-fourth street was the real guilty one; that he had induced him to sell tickets on a horse he said he wanted to realize $100 on, promising Dubois that he should have all over the $100 obtained by the sale of the tickets. The raffle was conducted in Dubois's name, though the latter said he had turned all the money realized on the tickets—$206-over to Jones, and that he had seen nothing of him, the horse, or the money since. Dubois was held in $300 for further examination. while driving a fare up Fifth avenue. Since

LENIENCY FOR A SHOPLIFTER.

Miss Little Forgiven on Account of the Age and Respectability of Her Parents.

Miss Laura Little of 105 West Ninety-fourth street, daughter of Thomas G. Little, head salesman for Jeffreys & Co., tobacco merchants of 81 Cortlandt street, was yesterday arraigned before Justice Voorhis at Jefferson Market Court to answer to a charge of shoplifting. Miss Little was arrested on Tuesday afternoon by Special Detective James Casey in Stern's dry goods store on Twenty-third street after she had stolen three silver pencils. and a silk fichu. worth in all $11.81. arrested she denied the theft, but on being arrested she denied the their, but on being told that she would be searched she broke down and confessed. At the Mercer street station, where her father, who is 75 years old, found her, she told him that she must have been out of her mind when she took the things. When the prisoner was brought into the court room she wore a heavy well. On eatching sight of her father and mother she broke down completely, and had to be taken into the antersom until she could compose herself. After some delay she came out again, and Justice Vobrhis had her remove her well. The face thus shown was that of a pretty woman, dark in complexion, with brilliant brown eyes, and framed by heavy dark hair. Her lips were tremulous, and her eyes showed evidences of tears as Justice Voorhis told her that, as the charge against her on account of the age and respectability of her parents, he would discharge her. She thanked him in a broken voice, and then, going to the clerk's desk, gavo her name and address, as is the custom with discharged prisoners. She said that she was 31 years old.

Byecial Detective Cavey said that he had seen Miss Little frequently at the store, but had never seen her take anything before. The Littles are well to do. told that she would be searched she broke

JOHNNY WARD'S LONG DRIFT.

He Makes a Trip Across Gravesend Bay Clinging to the Side of a Bent,

While Johnny Ward, the nine-year-old son of Dr. John E. Ward was playing with three of his friends on Ford's coal wharf at West End. Coney Island, on Saturday morning last, he got into a skiff, which one of his friends, Charlie McDonald, much against Johnny's wishes, pushed from the shore. As the wind was blowing seaward. Johnny and the boat gradually drifted out into Gravesend Bar. His playmates knew no way of getting back and thoy suggested that Johnny should say his prayers, and that the boat might come back on its own accord, but Johnny thought differently. He climbed out of the boat to wade shore but found he could not touch bottom. So he clung to the boat.

His young friends became alarmed and informed Dr. Ward of what had taken place. He immediately started a search, and at 4 o'clock he learned that John Morris a 10-year-old fisherman, had found Johnny and the boat off Unionville, about two miles away. Morris took the child to his own home, and with the assistance of a little whiskey brought him around all right. He was pretty well exhausted by his long bath.

Dr. Ward, when seen by a reporter said, however, it was doubtful which affected his son most, the bath or the Coney Island whiskey. was blowing seaward. Johnny and the boat

SOME OF NORMANNIA'S PASSENGERS WERE AFRAID OF ELBE WATER.

Judge Beers Testiffes in His Suit Agnine the Hamburg-American Company-Agents Told Him and Mr. Van Rennelaer that the Ship Would Carry No Steerage Passengers Before Judge Brown, in the United States Circuit Court yesterday, the suit of Judge Alfred B. Beers of Bridgeport against the Hamburg-American Packet Company to obtain $10,000 in damages for his detention on the steamship Normannia in September last was continued.

The day began with Judge Beers on the stand. He swore that he was assured by the company's agents in London and Southampton that the Normannia would not carry steerage passengers on the trip at the end of which she was detained. He said that he did not know there were any steerage passengers aboard until the tender had left the Normannia and the steamer was under way to this country. Cortlandt Van Rensselaer followed Judge Beers.
Mr. Van Rensselaer swore that he called several times at the offices of the company in Leadenhall and in Coxborough streets, London, to learn whether or not the Normannia was going to carry steerage passengers. On Satur day, Aug. 26, the day after the Normannia left Hamburg, Mr. Van Rensselser called at the office in Leadenhall street for the last time. He told them that he would willingly give up the passage money he had paid for himself and that the clerk called the manager of the office. who held in his hand a telegram in cipher. This telegram was from Hamburg, and said, secording to the manager:

The Normannia has satisd. No steerage passengers. Necessary precautions taken for safety of passengers. No money refunded.

Mr. Van Rensselaer then went to the Coxborough street office, where both the clerk and Rensselaer said that he saw no steerage passengers abourd the ship until after the ship was under way, and that he did not know there were any aboard until the key, Richard Harlan told him of it.

"I spoke with the doctor, the Captain, and "I spoke with the doctor, the Captain, and there was no cholera anoard. The water we used was from the Elbe and unfit to even wash in. The only thing I can add to Judge Beer's testimony is that he was too conservative and did not have half enough of the stewards strunk in his story."

The prosecution rested, and the defence called Capt. Carl Hebich of the Normannia. Capt. Hebich is the Commodera of the Hamburg fleet, has been in the service of the company thirty-four years, and has commanded the Normannia since she was built. Capt. Hebich showed three hig parchments, one of which was a bill of health from the Senate of Hamburg, another a certificate of inspection of the Normannia from Dr. Homan, Folice Physician of Hamburg, and the third a certificate of examination of the passengers. I awyer Benedict brought out the fact that the dirst was merely a clean bill of lealth of the city of Hamburg and not of the Normannia; that the second was state the day before the inspection was said to have 'een mande and that in the third the doctor admit-miles below hamiles. Some of the songers got aboard at Cuxhaven, sixty miles away.

"We reached Southempton about noon on Saturdar," said Cant. Hevich. "Three of the passengers who came aboard spoke to me of the atternage passengers. I told these passengers it would give them ten minutes to decide whether they watted to go ashore or not. They all stayed. I knew of no sickness until the day after we left Southampton. I depled it to the passengers, because I thought it best they should not know. I heard afterward that one of the atokers had symptoms of cholera before we reached Southampton. In regard to water, when we reached the lower bay Dr. Jenkins told us to pump out our water and he would send us fresh water. The fresh water came four days later. Some of the passengers washed in apollinaris for fear of the other water."

Dr. Max Brener of the Normannia said that he reported no cases to Capt. Heblet until after the ship left Southampton. He did not think there were any cholora cases aboard until they were two days out. He had no explanation to give of his report to Dr. Jenkins that two of the five cholera victims died, one of diabetes and the other of consumitien, while the other three died of summer complaint.

The case was adjourned until June 12 Meanwhile the depositions of Dr. Jenkins and Agent Hoas, together with the evidence of the Longon agents, will be taken at the offices of London agents, will be taken at the offices of Wheeler. Cortis & Godkin, beginning next Monday.

Samuel O'Connor of 1,000 Third avenue, New York, a brother, who was a witness to-day, and who, yesterday, under the name of "Samuel Mitcheil" telegraphed to the Fennsylvania Hospital, asking that the body be shipped to 78 kast 114th Street, in that city.

That O'Connor received his death wound while attempting to rob the Hamilton Watch Factory in Lancaster, I'm, on May 12, there is now no doubt. In addition to the brother, the man's wife and the watchman, Samuel F. Hauer of the watch factory, and Chief of Police George M. Borger of I amaster, testified. A verifict of intifiable homicide at the hands of Watchman ranger was rendered. O'Connor Lad been residing at 443 West Forty-third street, New York, for seven months before going to Huiladelphin on May 1. The authorities thought he had shipped on the Naronic, but all of the time he was in New York.

The cases were brought under the old gaming statute, and show that pool sellers could have been driven out of the city before, Judge Calle submitted a written decision, in which he said that, according to the statutes, any person placing or receiving money on the result of any gaming event is guilty of a misdemeanor. Counsel for the prisoners entered no defence, but, after receiving the decision, gave notice of an appeal to the Superior Court.

Selling Bogus Diplomas.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 24.-Dr. R. A. Van Anglebeek was found guilty to-day of using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of bogus diplomas. The jury was out seven an international Professor Association.

An attempt was made to clear him on the theory that he was simply acting as the agent of the Chicago concern, but this failed, as the Government brought the Chancellor of the National University here, who testified that Van Anglobeek had no connection with that institution, and had nover remitted any money to it. Van Anglebeek will be sentenced tomorrow. morrow. Raising Money for the Six Companies.

San Francisco, May 24.—Reliable information was obtained here to-day that one of the purposes of the Chinese Six Companies in resisting the enforcement of the Geary law was to raise half a milion dollars for private dis-tribution among the few principals in this mysterious cooperation. It is also learned that the rolley of resistance was adopted against the best legal advice. While the as-sessment was nominally $1 a head, in reality not a Chinese merchant in this city gave less than $10, and some gave many times that sum.

Pangerous Use of Strong Pargatives.

Phils and purgatives, which act quickly upon the bowels, irritate and destroy the mucous coats of the stomach and bowels. A continued use of such remedies produces chronic inflammation of the stomach and bowels. The use of the genuine imported Carsitad Spradel Sait is, therefore, highly recommended, because its action is due solely to its solvent and stimulating properties, and it does not irritate the stomach. Obtain the genuine imported article only. Elsper & Mendelson, Sole Agents, 152 and 154 Franklin st., New York.—Adv.

CHICAGO, May 24.-Benjamin Franklin Car-brother. Watts S. Carver, is still living. In the late fifties he became Secretary and eashier of the Marine Bank, at Lake and Lasalle streets, of which J. Young Seammon was tresident. His father, Benjamin Carver, was also largely interested in the bank.

Young Carver was a shrewd financier as the world went then, but some of his speculations were injudicious, and the downfall of the bank was generally attributed to his rashness. Later, about 1860, he founded the banking firm of B. F. Carver & Co., and thereafter he became connected with the old Mechanics' National Bank. Carver spread out into railroad speculations and was the originator of the plan to gain control of the short line running from Sterling, Ill., to the Northwestern main road, with the object of rivaling the Hock Island. The later company gained control of the branch, however, and the scheme failed of success.

Carver married a Miss Corey of Chicago, who survives him. At one time he was prominent in politics, and in the sixtles ran for Mayor, but was defeated. He was one of the early members of the Chicago Historical Society, and from Sept. 20, 1850, to Apuits, 1861, was President of the Chicago City Hailway Company. He was also a director of the Chicago Marrine and Fire Insurance Company.

His Death Was Not Caused by Suicide. Mr. Carver had a form of valvular disease of one of his distressing paroxysms of difficult breathing to inhale the fresh air; that he suddenly fainted and fell forward, and, the window sill being very low, his body was projected into the area below.

I have attended Mr. Carver daily during the past two months. He bore his suffering with nationee and courage, ite never showed any signs of melanchoila, which would render him susceptible to insane impulses.

The theory of his death which I have here formulated is, I believe, justified by my knowledge of the nature of his disease, and the circumstances which attended his fragic end.
